

WOMEN WILL SPREAD "CLEAN PLATE GOSPEL"

Chairmen of Fourteen States Agree to Help Hoover.

The women of the United States are well organized to add in the great war movement. This was shown yesterday by reports from fourteen Eastern and Southern States, at an important conference between the temporary State chairmen and the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the women's committee, presided.

The women pledged themselves to co-operate with the plans of Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator, who, through the various women's organizations, is going to appeal to every housewife to become a convert to the "Gospel of the Clean Plate" and elimination of waste.

Other matters which were discussed and which the representatives of the women's organizations decided to take up, were the welfare of women and children in wartime, providing recreation facilities for soldiers in the mobilization camps and the maintenance of the health and interests of women and children in industry.

KOLTCHAK HOLDS COMMAND.

Petrograd, June 1.—The official news agency of the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates announced today that Vice Admiral Kolchak, commander-in-chief of the Black Sea fleet, will retain his post at Sebastopol. This indicates that the quarrel between the council and Kolchak has been smoothed over.

PULLMAN SWEARS IN REUNION POLICEMEN

Public Order Committee for Veterans' Encampment Receive Instructions.

The members of the public order committee to act as policemen and serve during the encampment of the Confederate Veterans next week, 400 in number, were sworn in last night by Superintendent of Police Pullman at a meeting at the Willard Hotel.

Four of the subcommittees need additional members in order that the "beats" may be patrolled properly. Badges were issued to those members whose names have been given to the District Commissioners. To others signing cards at last night's meeting, badges will be issued Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Subcommittees on which additional members are needed are those on Obstruction and Line of March, Theaters, Hotels, Depots and Vehicles and Automobiles.

Col. Robert N. Harper, of the committee on arrangements of the Confederate Encampment, addressed the meeting urging assistance to the visitors who will be in Washington at 4 o'clock.

"I would like to say," declared Col. Harper, "that this gathering which we are going to have in Washington next week is one of decided peculiarity in comparison to the other gatherings that have been held here. It will be the largest crowd Washington has ever entertained. From statistics compiled by the railroads of the passenger traffic toward the city, a crowd is expected here numbering between 50,000 and 60,000 persons. This is larger than the attendance at any previous inauguration. There still will be between 50,000 and 60,000 in the line of march from 70 to 75 years of age, men who have never been in Washington before."

SECRETARY ROOSEVELT SEEKS TEACHERS' AID

So voluminous has the mail of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt become that he intends to start a clearing house to take care of it. Yesterday afternoon Secretary Roosevelt asked the co-operation of the school teachers to help carry out his plan, in speaking to the teachers branch of the McKinley Manual Training School. Miss Mabel Boardman, of the National Red Cross, Miss Margaret Gerry, Dr. W. F. Small and S. M. Ely also spoke.

Kennedy Shows' Coming Brings Joy to Young

Announcement that the Con. T. Kennedy shows will be here on the Union Station Plaza all next week was joyfully received by outdoor amusement patrons. The present warm spell made them desire entertainment of this kind, and the Kennedy shows will undoubtedly meet with a hearty welcome. There have been other outdoor amusement companies here, but weather conditions have not been so favorable as at present, and therefore did not appeal so strongly.

Everything is now in readiness for the arrival of the shows. Nothing remains but the putting up of the tents. The opening of the shows will take place at 7 o'clock on Monday evening.

BRAZIL ENDS NEUTRALITY.

Buenos Ayres, June 1.—President Braz, of Brazil, late today signed the law revoking Brazilian neutrality in the war between the United States and Germany. The signing followed passage by the Senate of the measure, which had been previously passed by the House.

CHAMBER FAVORS UNION

have the interests of the city really at heart are in favor of one organization. "Now why can't we look at this thing in a sensible way and get right down to rock bottom. Each of these various organizations wants to do what is best for Washington, they say, and all are agreed that the best cannot be done for Washington as long as there are so many organizations. Each organization feels that it ought to be the big organization—that the others ought to come to it. If the presidents of these organizations are sincere in what they say regarding their desires for the good of the city, will they not be big enough and broad enough to come forward and offer to resign, if by their resignations the city may be benefited? If the presidents of the Board of Trade, the Retail Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce all will agree to resign, then we could call a joint meeting of all three bodies and elect a president, and adopt a new constitution and by-laws and lay the foundation for real, effective, concentrated work."

"Certainly this is the fair thing to do and the right thing to do. All will then participate in electing the new officers and all can then vote as to what the name of the organization shall be. All feeling of jealousy will be blown away, and the people of Washington will be able to meet on common ground to discuss their common interests."

Is Member of All.

Mr. Berberich concluded: "I am not speaking for any particular organization, but for a member of all three. I am a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the advertising committee of the Retail Merchants' Association and a member of the Board of Trade and know the presidents of all three organizations intimately. And I feel sure that all three of these gentlemen have the interests of Washington sincerely at heart and are only willing, but will be only too glad to make any personal sacrifice that may be necessary to bring about that which is believed to be the best for all the people of Washington."

"The greatest good for the greatest number is the phrase which has come down to us through the generations, and it still holds good."

Common sense, business judgment and the people of Washington demand the merger of the trade bodies, according to George Y. Worthington, who was the next speaker. He said that it was ready possible to have an organization of from 3,000 to 4,000 men and a working fund of at least $50,000 a year if the union was brought about.

C. S. Stimson, a community organizer for the War Department, made a strong plea for a larger and more representative body, and praised the work which the chamber is doing. He said that there can be no greater force for civic aid to both city and government than an active business body, and described the work which the St. Paul and Minneapolis chambers are now doing. He thoroughly endorsed the proposed organization upon the bureau plan.

Former Representative James T. Lloyd, formerly of Missouri, outlined as the primary work of the proposed reorganized chamber the housing of Washington by effective means from every city and community in the country for instruction by the greatest professors in the world. An institution of fine arts and schools for instruction in agriculture and mechanic arts are some of the things which he Favors National University.

United States Commissioner of Education Philander C. Clark, advocated a national university, maintained by the government, at an annual expenditure of $10,000. To this institution would be brought leaders from every city and community in the country for instruction by the greatest professors in the world. An institution of fine arts and schools for instruction in agriculture and mechanic arts are some of the things which he declared should be established in Washington, to make it the greatest educational center in the world.

Col. John C. Capers described what an effective force a live chamber of commerce could be by pointing out that the work of relief in Atlanta, Ga., had been delegated by the authorities to the chamber, and that in another small Southern city, the chamber of commerce had been the agent of the Federal government to adjust inflated land values.

John Poole, president of the Federal National Bank urged the membership to the utmost for the liberty loan.

Upon the motion of Chapin Brown, a committee will be appointed by the chair to draw up changes in the constitution that will effect the desired reorganization.

The three-minute rule was supposed to apply to speeches, but President Sinclair had evidently not observed how time was allotted at Capitol Hill, and the speakers were not interrupted.

WILSON "CALLER" ARRESTED.

An elderly well-dressed man, who said he was Daniel Croftan, a native of Ireland, 75 years old, and whose home is in Boston, Mass., was arrested last yesterday near the United States Treasury by Policemen Ragon and sent to the Washington Asylum Hospital for mental observation. The man approached the policemen asking to be directed to the White House, explaining he wanted to see President Wilson.

LOCAL ITALIANS PLAN SUNDAY CELEBRATION

Members of Foreign Commission to Be Honored—Prominent Men Coming.

The Italian colony and various Italian fraternal societies will hold a celebration tomorrow of the Italian Embassy in honor of the Italian mission and to celebrate the fifty-third anniversary of the adoption of the Italian constitution.

Count Di Celleri, the Italian Ambassador, will present members of the Italian societies to Prince Undine, and the members of the Italian mission, Laurence Del Giorno, president of the Felice Cavallotti, one of the large local societies, will make an address of welcome.

Many prominent Italians have arranged to come to Washington for the event. A. Di Silvestro, of Philadelphia, E. Palleria, of Paterson, N. J., Representative LaGuarda, of New York, A. Caminetti, Commissioner of Immigration, are among these.

The Felice Cavallotti subscribed yesterday for $1,000 of the liberty loan bond and a like amount to the Italian national loan.

DON'T KICK ON THE PRICE OF

BREAD

Until You Know All the Facts

The cost of raw material is a very poor basis of calculation by itself of the cost of a manufactured article. Figuring a baker's profit as the difference between the cost of flour per barrel and the price of bread baked therefrom is about as reasonable as figuring the cost of an automobile by the price per pound of the steel used in making it.

We sell great quantities of flour, and more home baking is being done than ever before, but many housewives find it impracticable to bake at home, and for other reasons prefer to buy bread fresh as they need it.

Our bread business has reached a very high mark and we are endeavoring to take care of the constantly increasing demand.
